Klick & Show Lite K-10L - The Affordable Collaboration System

Kindermann, one of the leading providers of innovative presentation and conference technology, is presenting the "Lite" version of its wireless presentation system Klick & Show at the ISE 2019 in Amsterdam.

This wireless presentation solution is designed to wirelessly transmit the content of laptops and other mobile devices to an output device such as a projector or display; with no configuration, no cables and without wasting time. Designed for smaller to medium sized meeting rooms, classrooms and huddle spaces, Klick & Show makes meetings, lectures or lessons easy and flexible.

The cost-effective Lite version Klick & Show K-10L is operated and delivered without touch transmitters. To connect a laptop to the base unit, the universal Klick & Show PC Client software is required. The software can be downloaded from www.klickandshow.com or directly from the base unit. Still the system is compatible with the touch transmitters and supports up to four of them simultaneously. They can be purchased separately on request. For smartphones or tablets (Android / Apple iOS) a free app that allows content sharing is available in the respective app store. An additional HDMI port is also integrated in the base unit and supports resolutions up to 1080P / WUXGA @ 60 Hz.

The base unit (K-10L) is a cross-platform receiver with AV / IT bridge and integrated WiFi function (IEEE 802.11n / ac / 2.4 + 5 GHz) as well as RJ45 network interface. It responds to the Bring Your Own Device (BYOD) concept by enabling the processing of audiovisual content from a variety of media devices.

Updates made easy

Klick & Show is future-proof. Firmware updates are not only free, but you can also choose between an update by USB or Over-the-Air (OTA). For OTA updates the base unit is simply connected via CAT cable to the internet - the Klick & Show will start updating automatically.
